

The United States Public Health Service: Nursing Professional Advisory Committee
Career Development Sub-Committee and the Centers for Disease Control Nurse Working Group Presents a Live Webinar:

Pediatric Pearls

June 9, 2021 1300 – 1400 EST

Presenter:

LCDR Anne Dufek, MS, CPNP-PC

Nurse Practitioner

National Institutes of Health (NIH), National Cancer Institute (NCI)

Webinar Description:

This presentation will address growth, development, and assessment of pediatric patients, as infants, toddlers, preschoolers, school-age children, and adolescent, highlighting that children are not “little adults”. Public health trends important to the care of infants, children, and adolescents, such as immunizations, dental health, suicide, and adolescent risky behaviors will also be addressed.

Target Audience:

This webinar is designed for Registered Nurses and Nurse Practitioners

Learning Objectives:

1. Explain the nursing implications of the topic addressed during the presentation. *
2. Describe how the nurse’s work contributes to public health practice and population health. *
3. Discuss priority health and policy issues that address current and emerging public health problems and issues
4. Describe impact of intersection of public health and nursing science in practice at the population and community level as it relates to achieving health outcomes
